Eight college and university campuses are located in Providence, including Ivy League Brown University and the world-renowned art school, Rhode Island School of Design. Providence is also home to the world's largest culinary educator, Johnson & Wales University, and reaps the rewards of having many of the school's alumni demonstrate their talents in local restaurants. The city continues to garner numerous accolades for its food culture, including Travel + Leisure readers recently voting Providence one of the top dining destinations in the United States.
